

17th September

'Remembrance in Devon of the Great War'

As we start to commemorate the centenary of the Great War, Dr Todd Gray, Research Fellow at Exeter University, will look at the reasons why the monuments to the dead men and women vary so much within the county. His illustrated talk brings alive the feelings at the time of their creation and reminds us of the sacrifice made by those honoured.

15th October

AGM followed by excerpts from Moreton's film archives

We will show excerpts from local film and video collections that have been digitised for the archives.

19th November

'Recent archaeological discoveries on Dartmoor'

Jane Marchand, Dartmoor National Park Authority's Senior Archaeologist, will give an illustrated talk on the recent excavations at Tottiford reservoir and Whitehorse Hill cist.
